Install documentation as a standalone module

- Download the documentation from here
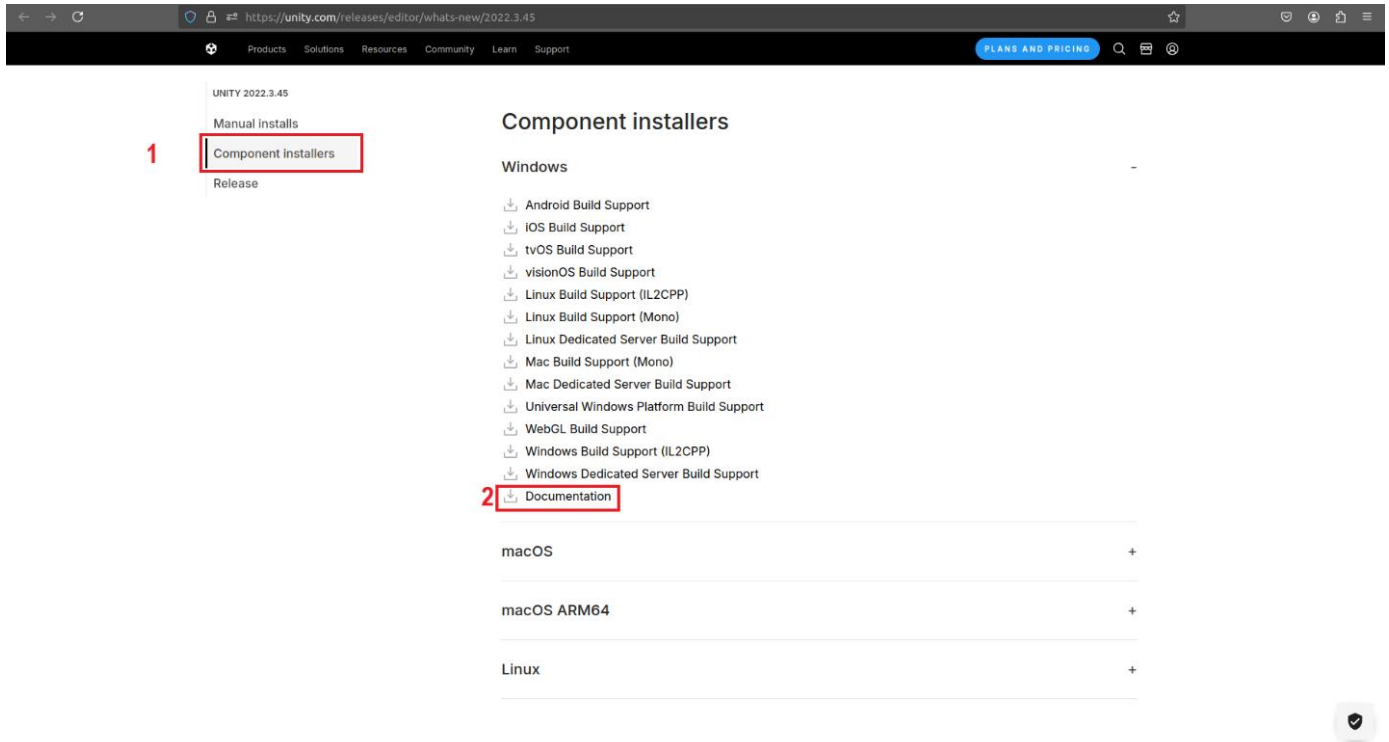

From Component Installers choose your platform then choose Documentation

- Extract the downloaded zip file , you will get a folder named "UnityDocumentation" and inside it another folder called "Documentation"
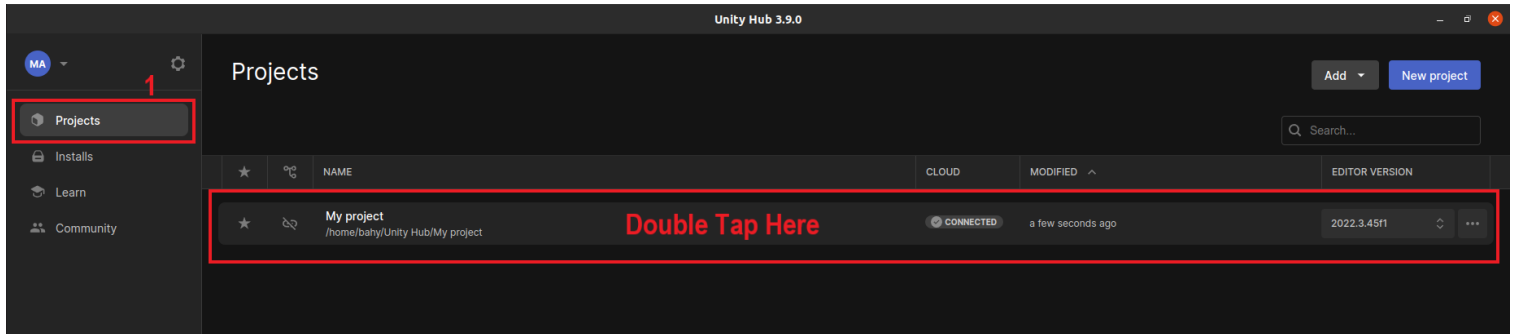

Add the documentation to unity hub

- Open unity hub and go to the install tab and reveal your unity editor in file explorer
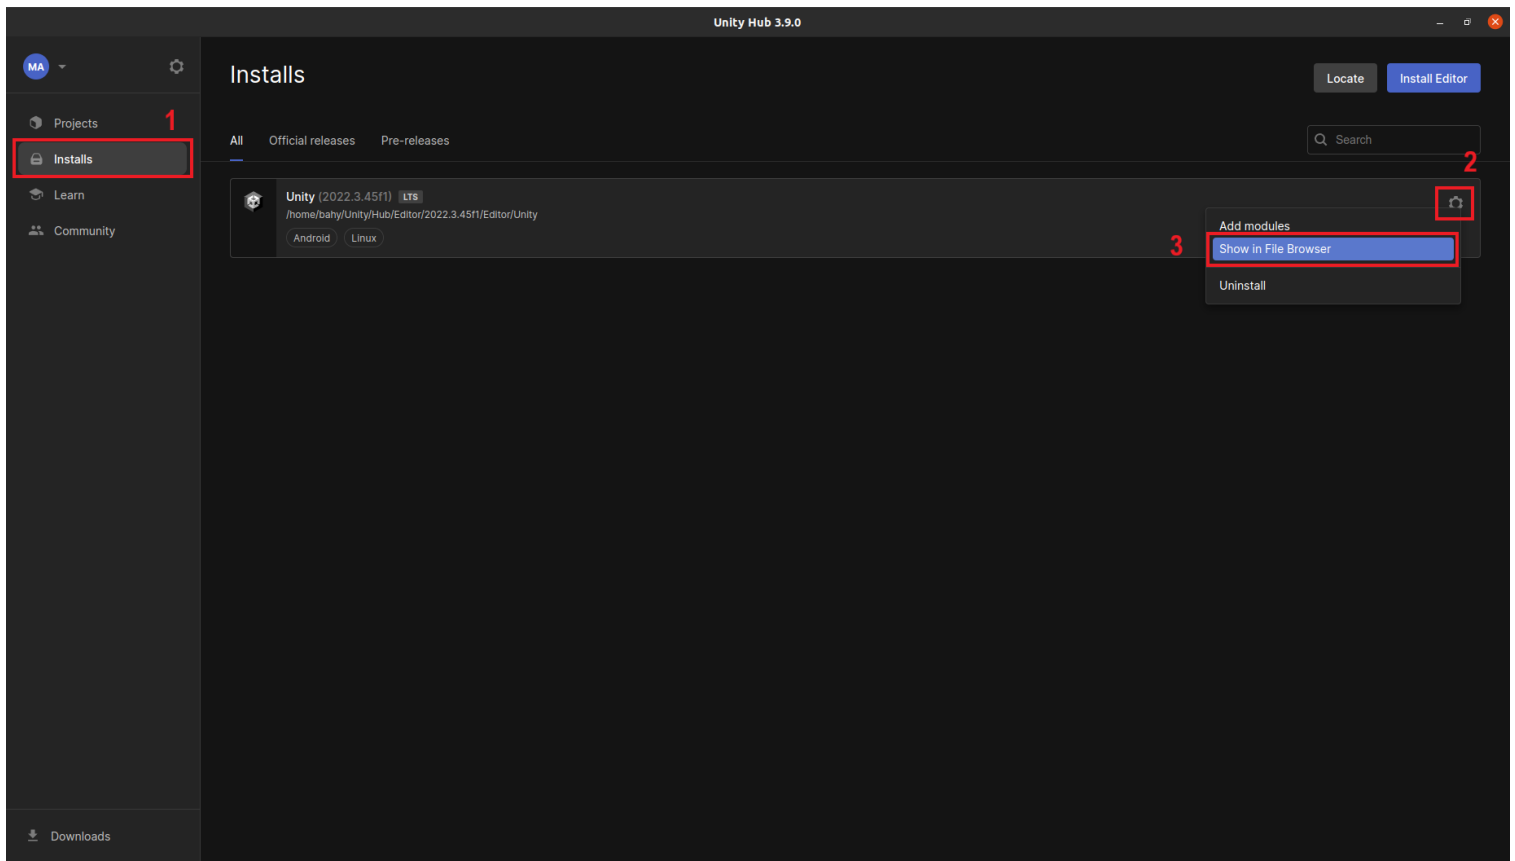

- You should see a folder called "Data" , open it

- Close unity hub from the system tray

- Copy and Paste the "Documentation" folder here inside the "Data" folder

Validate it worked

- Open your unity project by double click on it

- From the help menu , choose unity manual

- The documentation should open in your browser with the URL pointing at the "Documentation" folder we added inside the "Data" folder
